THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY AND EUROPEAN INTEGRATION

On 14 October 2004 the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia adopted the Resolution on Accession to the European Union. The Resolution contains guidelines for the operation of the legislative and executive government in the Republic of Serbia aimed at reaching the Copenhagen criteria. The Resolution gives full consent to entering the European Union as the highest and undisputed political priority, expressing readiness for further engagement on meeting the political conditions for the accession to the European Union. The Resolution highlights the need to bring to justice all persons suspected of committing crimes during the armed conflicts in the period between 1991 and 2000 on the territory of the former SFRY. The document gives full consent to the further improvement of good-neighbourly relations and all other types of regional cooperation and regional initiatives at the same time obliging the National Assembly to prioritise its work on harmonising domestic legislation with the legal legacies of the European Union, and it also demands the introduction of special procedures to improve the efficiency of the process. The Resolution on Accession to the European Union obligates the Government of the Republic of Serbia to keep the National Assembly duly informed on obligations planned and fulfilled and on the realisation of all the programmes and other activities necessary to speed up Serbia's approach to the European Union. The National Assembly and the Government are expected to adopt a Declaration on their joint efforts concerning Serbia's EU integration process. The Draft Declaration which is being prepared by the National Assembly's European Integrations Committee and the European Integration Office, has been drafted with the goal of establishing political consensus regarding Serbia's pro-European commitment that would open the road towards a more efficient and concentrated approach to the negotiations process. The declaration would obligate the legislative and executive government to prioritise the creation and adoption of documents most important for the integration process, as well as harmonisation of existing ones with EU legislation. The existing practice with the European Parliament on the political and administrative level develops via annual interparliamentary meetings between the European Parliament's Delegation for Southeastern Europe and National Assembly's delegation comprising mainly members of the National Assembly's European Integrations Committee. In addition, the MPs take part in international colloquia between representatives of the national parliaments of Western Balkans countries and representatives of the European Parliament's competent committees organised by the Directorate for Relations with National Parliaments, as well as in certain joint meetings of the parliaments of member states and European Parliament representatives.

The work of the National Assembly's European Integrations Committee is particularly significant in the realm of Serbia's process of integration into the European Union. The members of the European Integrations Committee and other National Assembly bodies take part in regional activities strengthening cooperation in the region on all levels which is a foreign policy priority for countries in the accession process achieved via the Regional Secretariat for Parliamentary Cooperation of the Regional Cooperation Council, successor of the Stability Pact for South Eastern Europe. In the European integration process the National Assembly enjoys exceptionally good cooperation with the civil sector and international missions in Serbia, by realising joint projects and organising public debates on Bills, which is all tied to the particular responsibility of the National Assembly and its MPs to bring European ideas, values and accession processes closer to the Serbian citizens.

Note:

In 2010, a Complaint was submitted to the Commissioner for Information and Personal Data Protection, by Momcilo Milutinovic from Belgrade (memo of the Commissioner's Service No. 07-00-0668/2010-03 of 18 May 2010) on the National Assembly's failure to process request 03 No. 07-94/10 of 19 January 2010. The case was forwarded to the Justice and Administration Committee and not the person authorised to process requests as it related to the work of the deputy prosecutor at the Second Municipal Prosecutor's Office and Deputy District Prosecutor in Belgrade. Having processed the case the Justice and Administration Committee service forwarded it to the NARS Justice and Administration Committee.

5. Processing requests for free access to information in 2010, pursuant to the current regulations, the National Assembly did not exact a fee as the requests required forwarding written information or copy of a short document.

6. Pursuant to article 39 of the Law, in late 2005 the National Assembly published the first Information Booklet on its work in print and electronically.
7. In late 2008, the National Assembly commenced the work on a new Information Booklet published on the National Assembly's electronic presentation on 14 January 2009. In the drafting of the Information Booklet, the National Assembly Secretary established the Instructions on processing requests for access to information and realisation of measures for the improvement of the transparency of work, No. 9-16/09 of 8 January 2009 whose coming to force terminated the Order on the establishment of the Information Booklet on the National Assembly's work, 03 No. 02-3084/05 of 29 December 2005.
8. Pursuant to the Instruction on the drafting and publishing of information booklet on the work of a state authority, of 29 September 2010, the National Assembly drafted a new Information Booklet published on the NARS electronic presentation on 30 December 2010 and updated on 15 January 2011.
9. We would like to inform you that the National Assembly is currently preparing a more modern and user-friendly internet presentation which will contain more information and documents thus considerably facilitating access to information generated in and related to the National Assembly's work.
10. Since January 2005, the recording, record keeping and archiving of acts and documents generated in and related to the National Assembly's work at the National Assembly Clerk's Office is done by automatic data processing. The documentation in the possession of the National Assembly is categorized and classified according to the Category List of records with set storage time after which the weeded worthless current records are destroyed after the assent of the Archive of the Republic of Serbia. The documentation in the possession of the National Assembly of national i.e. cultural and historical significance is processed in a timely fashion, collated and stored permanently according to archival rules for its protection and availability to scientific, expert and general public.
11. The most common medium used for storing National Assembly documentation is paper. In addition to it, there are also electronic documents as well as shorthand and audio-magnetic records of all the National Assembly sittings and a large number of sittings of its permanent and temporary bodies.
12. The employees at the National Assembly received no special training, except for the employees of the clerk's office who were trained to pay special attention, in automatic data processing conditions, to the reception of verbal requests for information, recording of all the requests and deadlines for their processing. Several seminars were held on the National Assembly's oversight role, as well as cooperation and relations between the independent regulatory bodies and the National Assembly.

13. The persons authorised to process these requests took part in the international conference on the “National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia and Independent State Bodies”, specialised workshops held on 26 and 27 November 2009 as part of the Conference, as well as the regional expert summit on personal data protection held in Belgrade on 19 May 2009.

In 2010, the authorised persons attended all the one-day seminars and workshops organised by the Commissioner’s office related to the drafting of information booklets and implementation of the Law on Free Access to Information of Public Importance, as well as the implementation of the Personal Data Protection Law.

To ensure an even more efficient implementation of the Law and improve the processing of the requests, we believe that there is a need to organise additional seminars and workshops – in cooperation with the Commissioner’s service – which would help to better understand the need for transparency in the work of public administration bodies and briefing the employees on their obligations as regards the right to access to information of public importance. The need is even more pronounced in the implementation of the Personal Data Protection Law, as a more recent law whose full and consistent implementation requires knowledge of practical examples from the states in the region, as well as from the aspect of the day-to-day practical actions of state bodies.

As regards the Personal Data Protection Law, the National Assembly Secretary sent a memo on 22 December 2009 to the public media prohibiting the recording of the vaccination of MPs and National Assembly Service employees against the A-H1N1 virus or publication of data on the vaccinated persons without their free consent in line with article 16 of said Law.

The National Assembly has established and keeps personal data records in line with article 48 of the Law and has fulfilled its legal obligation of forwarding said records to the Commissioner so that they can be entered into the Central Register along with the updates of the current records.

14. We are proud to inform you that both in 2009 and 2010, the National Assembly received a recognition on the International Right to Know Day with the explanation that it is one of the institutions which do not experience the free access to information as an imposed obligation but an appropriate one for the relation between a public government body and the public.
15. Please find attached a table of actions and measures implemented in line with the Law on Free Access to Information of Public Importance in 2010 submitted by Your act No. 011-00-1138/2010-01 of 6 December 2010.

Hoping that we shall continue to cooperate successfully so as to ensure an efficient implementation of the Law on Free Access to Information of Public Importance, sincerely

SECRETARY GENERAL
Veljko Odalovic

The gross salary comprises the MPs' net salary incremented by the personal income tax and social contributions, viz.: personal income tax – 12%; pension and disability contributions – 11%; health insurance contributions – 6.15% and unemployment insurance contributions – 0.75%. ##### 2) Salary/pension differential

Salary differentials are calculated according to MP wage ordinances adopted under Article 5, paragraph 1 of the Law on Income of Deputies at the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia. In line with the regulations in force an MP's gross income is reduced by a standardized expenditure rate in the amount of 20% to get to the taxable income which is then taxed by 22% for pension and disability contributions and 20% for personal income tax according to the Law on contributions and personal income tax.

The salary base used for the calculation is 80% of the salary earned by an MP fully employed at the National Assembly.

This income is calculated by reducing the MP's gross income by a standardized expenditure rate in the amount of 20% to get to the taxable income which is then taxed by 22% for pension and disability contributions and 20% for personal income tax according to the Law on contributions and personal income tax.

National Assembly House – 13 Nikola Pasic Square

The edifice of the present House of the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia was erected near the place where on November 30, 1830 the Great National Assembly took place. On that occasion, the Turkish sultan's state decree on the rights of Serbs was proclaimed and the hereditary title of Prince Milos was confirmed. The construction of the parliamentary edifice, based on the 1901 design by the architect Jovan Ilkic, started in 1907, when King Petar I Karadjordjevic laid the cornerstone of the future House of National Representation. The construction of the building was completed in 1936 and the first session in the new edifice was held on October 20th of the same year. At the time, it was the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Yugoslavia. In September 1939, the Assembly was dissolved and during the Second World War it was occupied by the aggressor's civil administration for Serbia. In the several decades after the end of the war, this was the building of the Assembly of the Democratic Federal Yugoslavia, the Assembly of the Federal People's Republic of Yugoslavia and the Assembly of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia. After the dissolution of SFRY in the 1990s, this edifice became the seat of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, i.e. the seat of the Assembly of the State Union of Serbia and Montenegro. On June 5, 2006, Serbia became an independent state, thus, the parliamentary building became the House of the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia.

On July 6, 2006, the Government of the Republic of Serbia – Office Buildings and Space Allocation Commission adopted Conclusion 77 No. 361-3712/2006-001 allocating the following for the use of the National Assembly: real estate in Belgrade, 13 Nikola Pasic Square (building of the former Assembly of Serbia and Montenegro) with full equipment and instruments of labour in it for the purpose of providing office space necessary for the Assembly's operation. In the same Conclusion, the Government of the Republic of Serbia – Office Buildings and Space Allocation Commission ruled that, in addition to the abovementioned realty, the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia shall continue to use the building in Belgrade, 14 Kralja Milana Street, it had so far used in the performance of its duty.

The National Assembly House covers an area of 13,400 m<sup>2</sup> and contains four floors: subterranean part, ground floor, first floor and attic and mezzanines – below the subterranean part, between the subterranean part and ground floor and between the ground floor and first floor. The building contains 100 offices, four committee halls with full conference equipment, great and small plenary halls and. All the halls are air-conditioned. The building is equipped with computers, printers, scanners and fax machines, has an internal television channel and computer network with a non-stop internet connection.

The library, situated on the first floor of the National Assembly House, has an area of 165 m<sup>2</sup> and contains over 60,000 books.
